Father convicted of felony neglect in death of infant

Madison man facing 20-40 years prison

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Madison man was found guilty of Level 1 felony neglect of a dependent in the 2018 death of his infant 3-month old son, who had a toxic level of methamphetamine in his system at the time of his death.

Jefferson County Circuit Court jury deliberated eight hours Wednesday before rendering a guilty verdict in the trial of Deven G. Frisque, 34. The trial began Monday with the prosecution wrapping up presentation of evidence earlier on Wednesday. Frisque is facing between 20 and 40 years in prison with sentencing scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on July 6.

Deven G. Frisque

Jefferson County Prosecutor David R. Sutter said the case was the result of outstanding effort and work by many. He and Chief Deputy Prosecutor Melissa Campbell represented the State of Indiana at trial.

Sutter said the excellent work by law enforcement played a key role. He thanked Indiana State Police Detective Pete Tressler, ISP Crime Scene Investigator Merritt Toomey, Madison Police Department Officer Josh Nolan, former MPD and current Jeffersonville officer Phillip Wimpee and Jefferson County Coroner Rodney Nay for their testimony during the trial.

The trial also featured testimony from Dr. Thomas Sozio, forensic pathologist, and Sheila Arnold with the Indiana State Department of Toxicology.

MCS planning Aug. 11 school opening

BY BOB DEMAREE

The 2021-22 school year for Madison Consolidated Schools will begin Aug. 11, and Superintendent Dr. Jeffrey Studebaker is already thinking ahead to the school corporation's COVID-19 guidelines for reopening as the school board approved a draft reopening plan at Wednesday's monthly meeting.

A reopening plan is necessary to receive funds from the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief Fund (ESSR) through the third phase from the American Rescue Act.

Studebaker is preparing for all possible scenarios.

"There is one big issue hanging out there. We don't know what the Governor is going to do with masks," he said.

Studebaker said he will make a recommendation to the board at its July meeting, but the plan is for the school corporation to follow the guidelines of Gov. Eric Holcomb and the Centers of Disease Control (CDC).

MCS OKs funding mechanism for $8M project

BY BOB DEMAREE

The funding mechanism for two major school projects took another step forward Wednesday as Madison Consolidated School Board approved three resolutions pertaining to the sale of bonds to finance an expansion of one school and solar efficiencies at a second.

In May, the school board unanimously approved a resolution to build an addition to the west side of Anderson Elementary School and another to develop solar efficiencies throughout the school corporation — mostly at Madison Consolidated High School — with the projects financed by a single $8 million bond.

First, a resolution was approved confirming the need for the projects. After that, a resolution was passed to reapprove the MCS building corporation.

Bonnie Hensler, director of Finance and Human Resources, said the reason the building corporation exists is "so the board can issue bonds beyond its control limit. The school board has the authority to issue a certain amount of bonds through the

Bartholomew jail inmate found dead

Investigation still ongoing

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Indiana State Police are investigating the death of a Bartholomew County Jail inmate last weekend.

The Bartholomew County Sheriffs Department called on detectives from the Indiana State Police-Versailles Post to conduct an investigation into the death of an inmate Sunday at the jail in Columbus, Indiana.

The investigation began shortly after 6 p.m. when a male inmate, Gregory A. Leonard, 47, Columbus, was found unresponsive in the jail. The inmate was provided medical care and transported to Columbus Regional Hospital where he was then pronounced dead.

Having an outside police agency like the ISP investigate is a normal practice when a death occurs inside a correctional facility.

The investigation is ongoing and Leonard's family has been notified.

Area road closings scheduled, rescheduled

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Chip seal operations are scheduled to begin next week on sections of State Roads 203, 256 and 356 in Jefferson and Scott counties.

The work, by the Indiana Department of Transportation crews, will begin as early as Tuesday, June 15 on the State Road 31 and west junction of State Road 203, State Road 203 between State Roads 56 and 256 and State Road 256 between State Roads 203 and 3.

Chip seal operations typically last around three to four days per location depending upon weather. Work is completed under lane closures with flagging to prevent damage to both vehicles and the roadway.

Inclement weather has forced the City of Madison Sewer Department to push back to next week a project to repair a main line at the intersection of Elm and Third streets in downtown Madison.

The intersection now will be closed to traffic during the day on Monday, June 14 through Wednesday, June 16,from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. or until completion. Expect some delays and plan accordingly. Work is subject to change if more inclement weather or an emergency occurs.

Meanwhile, cooperative weather conditions on Friday allowed the Jefferson County Highway Department to headway on some projects delayed by inclement weather earlier in the week. That means the department has only three projects scheduled specifically for next week.

A road closure has been extended for Monday, June 14 on Dawson Smith Road between Shun Pike and Paper Mill Road.

A road closure on Polk Road from Rogers Road to 1233 West and on County Road 1233 West from SR 256 to Polk Road, is also scheduled for Monday, June 14.

The closures will be during the working hours of 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., subject to weather permitting, and road closure signs will be posted.

Elsewhere, CSX Railroad plans to close the State Road 101 crossing in Milan for repairs the morning of Monday, June 14 and reopen the area by end of day Saturday, June 19.

An official detour will follow US 50 to State Road 129 to State Road 350. Repair work will be rescheduled as needed due to inclement weather.

Motorists are reminded to slow down, use extra caution, and drive distraction-free in and near work zones.

"Infant deaths are always difficult cases, particularly for our first responders. I would also like to sincerely thank DCS, all of the first responders who showed up on scene, and dispatchers who took the initial calls," said Sutter.

The baby's mother, Tara L. Savage, 26, previously entered a guilty plea to Level 1 felony neglect of a dependent resulting in death and was sentenced to 24 years, all to be served at the Indiana Department of Correction.

On July 15, 2018, Savage awoke when a friend knocked on the door of the family's Presidential Estates apartment around 2 p.m. The probable cause affidavit states she found the baby, on the sectional sofa, facedown and unresponsive. Officers arriving on scene reported the baby was purple and cool to the touch.

Frisque told officers he last saw his son alive around 5 a.m. when he saw Savage giving him a bottle. He said he had taken Suboxone, a drug used to treat narcotic dependence, which knocks him out.

During the course of the investigation, Savage and Frisque were tested for drug use. Both had illegal drugs in their systems, including methamphetamine.

A toxicology report on the baby showed levels of methamphetamine in his blood. The cause of death was determined to be acute methamphetamine ingestion, and the manner of death was homicide. Also in the apartment at the time was Savage's daughter who was then 6 years old.

In Loving Memory of

Wanda Urbanik

Wanda Urbanik, of Madison Indiana, passed at River Terrace on Monday, 7 June 2021 at the age of 89. Loving wife, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother, she was a devout Roman Catholic and a longtime member of Madison's Catholic Community, including St. Patrick and Prince of Peace parishes. Mrs. Urbanik worked in Grote Manufacturing Company from 1968 to 1997 where she was a member of the International Association of Machinists. Mrs. Urbanik's eventful and productive life was almost evenly split between Europe and the United States. She was born on the outskirts of Krakow, Poland on 11 January 1932 and experienced poverty and famine occasioned by economic depression and World War II. She married Adam Urbanik and started raising a family in 1952. Benefiting from a brief thaw in the Cold War and the "Family Reunification Act" passed by the US Congress in 1965, Mrs. Urbanik, her husband, and two of her three children emigrated to Madison, Indiana on 9 Sep. 1966, sponsored by her in-laws Suzanna and Albin Koczergo. She and her husband proudly become naturalized US citizens in 1975. Her Madison area employers included Fiesta Restaurant and Grote Manufacturing Company.

Wanda continued to remain active and industrious after her formal "retirement" in the mid 1990's by assisting her husband with deer processing and sausage-making. She and Adam also frequented Kentuckiana flea markets and sales barns. Hardened by life experiences, Mrs. Urbanik was fiercely independent with a strong work ethic and boundless generosity. She delighted in cooking tasty Polish dishes and baking cakes for friends, family and neighbors. After Adam's passing in 2011, she found solace and support in her friend and neighbor Ms. Lorraine Lyons.

Immediate family includes her daughters: Margaret Bridgford of Madison, IN and Julie Rowland of Burlington, KY and her son, Andrew Urbanik of Beaufort, SC. Mrs. Urbanik has six grandchildren: John Adam Hoffman and Kelli Flannery; Margaret Hamil and Michael Urbanik; and Ava and Lily Rowland. She is also survived by two great-grandchildren, Kayli and Gracie Hoffman. Mrs. Urbanik enjoyed a close relationship with her niece Veronika Koczergo-Feltner currently of St. Augustine FL and her sister Helena Stocka of Chicago IL.

MPD busy with narcotic arrests

BY THE COURIER STAFF

An attempted traffic stop by Madison Police on Madison's hilltop Thursday led to a pursuit and the arrest of a Trimble County man for felony resisting arrest charges.

Eugene Joseph Sanchez

Jonathan Duane Owens Jr.

Sonia M. Slone

According to Harris, the driver, later identified as Eugene Joseph Sanchez, 34, Bedford, Kentucky, dropped a clear plastic baggie during the foot pursuit. Detective Kyle Cutshaw, who was nearby, also gave pursuit and Sanchez surrendered to police at that time.

Sanchez was taken into custody without further incident and transported to the Jefferson County Jail, where he faces two counts of resisting law enforcement. One count is a Level 6 felony for fleeing in a vehicle and the other is a Class A misdemeanor for fleeing on foot. The clear plastic baggie was recovered, however it was found ripped and void of any contents.

Elsewhere, a traffic stop by Madison police Thursday on Madison's hilltop resulted in the arrest of a local man on drug charges

Madison Patrolman Cameron Blankenship stopped Jonathan Duane Owens Jr., 40, Madison, at Clifty Drive and Harry Nichols Drive. During that investigation K-9 Officer Bradly Demaree and his partner, Champi, conducted an open air sniff around the exterior of Owen's vehicle and indicated positive for the presence of narcotics. A subsequent search of the vehicle located methamphetamine and scheduled drugs.

Owens was taken into custody and charged with Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony, and possession of a Scheduled Drug, a Class A misdemeanor. He was transported to the Jefferson County Jail where he is being held withhout bond.

On Wednesday, Madison Police arrested a Carroll County, Kentucky, woman for possession and conspiracy to deal in methamphetamine.

Sonia M. Slone 35, Prestonville, Kentucky, was taken into custody during a traffic stop at Second and East streets, and charged with Conspiracy/Dealing Methamphetamine, a Level 4 felony, and Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony. She was incarcerated at the Jefferson County Jail without bond.

The arrest was the result of an ongoing narcotics investigation led by MPD Detectives Cutshaw and Harris, Patrolman Blankenship and Patrolman Trent Smith. Madison Police Department has conducted 12 narcotics-related investigations over the past four days.

Trimble County firefighters work Thursday to extinguish a mobile home fire on Starks Lane near Bedford. The blaze, which was reported shortly before 3:30 p.m., was fully involved by the time firefighters arrived and the home was a total loss.

Fire destroys Trimble home

BY BOB DEMAREE

Fire destroyed a mobile home in the 1200 block of Starks Lane near Bedford, Kentucky, on Thursday afternoon.

Bedford Volunteer Fire Department Chief Will McCoy said the fire was reported at 3:25 p.m. and by the time firefighters arrived minutes later it had spread from one room to multiple rooms, and was breaking through several windows.

The structure, owned by Samir Balata, had a kitchen, living room, two bedrooms and a bathroom, and took "a little over an hour" to put out. McCoy said the cause of the fire is still under investigation.

In addition to the Bedford Fire Department, the Milton Fire Department and Trimble County Emergency Medical Service were on the scene.

Senators eye $579 billion in new infrastructure spending, $1 trillion plan

BY LISA MASCARO AND KEVIN FREKING
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — A bipartisan group of senators is eyeing an infrastructure deal with $579 billion in new spending as negotiators try to strike a nearly $1 trillion deal on President Joe Biden's top priority, according to those briefed on the plan.

The 10 senators have been huddling behind closed doors, encouraged by Biden to keep working on the effort after he walked away from a Republican-only proposal this week unable to resolve differences. The senators are briefing their colleagues privately and cautioned changes could still be made.

"Our group — comprised of 10 Senators, 5 from each party — has worked in good faith and reached a bipartisan agreement on a realistic, compromise framework to modernize our nation's infrastructure and energy technologies," the senators said in a joint statement.

"This investment would be fully paid for and not include tax increases," they added. "We are discussing our approach with our respective colleagues, and the White House, and remain optimistic that this can lay the groundwork to garner broad support from both parties and meet America's infrastructure needs."

The White House said Democratic senators briefed the administration on the emerging plan but questions remain.

"The President appreciates the Senators' work to advance critical investments we need to create good jobs, prepare for our clean energy future, and compete in the global economy," said deputy press secretary Andrew Bates. "Questions need to be addressed, particularly around the details of both policy and pay-fors, among other matters."

The president and Congress have been straining to reach an agreement on his ideas for an infrastructure investment, stuck over the scope of the package of road, highway and other projects and how to pay for it. Lawmakers say the group's tentative agreement represents important progress in fashioning a bill that can pass such an evenly divided Congress this year, but they are also aware that it could easily unravel.

A person familiar with the negotiations but unauthorized to discuss them publicly said the cost would be $974 billion over five years, as is standard for highway spending, or $1.2 trillion if spread over eight as Biden proposes. At that size, the new package would be more than the previous Republican-only effort of $330 billion in new spending in a $928 billion package, but still short of the $1.7 trillion over eight years Biden is seeking.

It appears the group is running into the same problems that Biden and lead Republican negotiator Sen. Shelley Moore Capito confronted in agreeing on how to pay for it.

Sen. Bill Cassidy, R-La., a lead negotiator, would not disclose the final tab. Asked if the new spending was at $600 billion, he said "the president said that was his goal. So I don't think anybody felt like they had to exceed his goal."

Another member of the group, Sen. Jon Tester, D-Mont., said they are "fairly close" on a topline amount, but are still debating how to pay for it. One option is to include potential revenue from uncollected income taxes, he said.

"We still have to talk," Tester said.

One Republican not in the group, Sen. Mike Braun of Indiana, said he was told the package would provide nearly $1 trillion — including $579 billion in new spending over the baseline for transportation projects.

Biden sells G-7 on global corporate tax hike, but U.S. Congress is a hurdle

BY JOSH BOAK
ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Joe Biden might have persuaded some of the world's largest economies to hike taxes on corporations, but the U.S. Congress could be a far tougher sell.

White House press secretary Jen Psaki said Friday that leaders of the Group of Seven — which also includes the United Kingdom, France, Canada, Germany, Italy and Japan — agreed with Biden on placing a global minimum tax of at least 15% on large companies. The G-7 leaders, participating in a three-day summit in England, affirmed their finance ministers who earlier this month endorsed the global tax minimum.

"America is rallying the world to make big multinational corporations pay their fair share so we can invest in our middle class at home," Jake Sullivan, the president's national security adviser, said Friday on Twitter.

A minimum tax is supposed to halt an international race to the bottom for corporate taxation that has led multinational businesses to book their profits in countries with low tax rates. This enables them to avoid taxes and encourages countries to slash rates. The minimum rate would make it tougher for companies to avoid taxes, and could possibly supplant a digital services tax that many European nations are imposing on U.S. tech firms that pay at low rates.

Biden administration officials believe the use of overseas tax havens has discouraged companies from investing domestically, at a cost to the middle class. The president hopes a G-7 endorsement can serve as a springboard for getting buy-in from the larger Group of 20 complement of nations.

The agreement is not a finished deal, as the terms would need to be agreed upon by countries in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and implemented by each of them. The president needs other countries to back a global minimum tax to ensure that his own plans for an enhanced one in the U.S. don't hurt American businesses.

"It has the potential to stop the race to the bottom," said Thornton Matheson, a senior fellow at the Tax Policy Center. "It would be a huge sea change in the way things have been going in corporate taxes for the last three decades."

The idea of an enhanced global minimum tax is also an integral part of Biden's domestic agenda, but it faces resistance in Congress.

The president has proposed using a global minimum tax to help fund his sweeping infrastructure plan. His budget proposal estimates it could raise nearly $534 billion over 10 years, but Republicans say the tax code changes would make the United States less competitive in a global economy.

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen framed the agreement as a matter of basic fairness after the finance ministers' meeting.

"We need to have stable tax systems that raise sufficient revenue to invest in essential public goods and respond to crises and ensure that all citizens and corporations fairly share the burden of financing government," she said.

Texas Rep. Kevin Brady, top Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, said GOP lawmakers would fight "tooth and nail" against the tax. Republicans view lower taxes as encouraging companies to invest and hire, putting little stock in Biden's argument that improved infrastructure and better-educated workers would help increase growth.

"It is an economic surrender," Brady said Friday. "President Biden has managed to do the impossible — he has made it better to be a foreign company and a foreign worker than an American company and an American worker."

Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell of Kentucky has repeatedly said his party will oppose any measures that undo the 2017 tax cuts signed into law by President Donald Trump.

The 2017 overhaul did create a new way to tax companies' foreign profits with what is known as "global intangible low-taxed income." Congressional Democrats said that framework encouraged firms to invest in foreign countries, instead of at home.

Indiana man convicted in twin sons' 2014 house fire deaths

LAFAYETTE — A Lafayette man has been has convicted in his twin 3-year-old sons' house fire deaths more than two years after a judge vacated his earlier guilty plea in their 2014 deaths.

A Tippecanoe County jury on Thursday convicted Brandon Abbott on 13 counts, including two counts of neglect resulting in death, the Journal & Courier reported. He's set to be sentenced Sept. 13.

The boys died from smoke inhalation in the rented house near the town of Mulberry, about 50 miles northwest of Indianapolis, while on a weekend visit with their father.

Abbott had pleaded guilty in March 2015 to two counts of neglect of a dependent resulting in death and was sentenced to 70 years in prison.

A judge vacated his plea, conviction and sentence in February 2019 after an attorney for Abbott argued in part that his sentence was illegal because his guilty pleas were not made knowingly or voluntarily.

Indiana man gets life for role in woman's torture-slaying

GOSHEN — A northern Indiana man convicted for his role in the 2019 torture-slaying of a woman whose body was dumped in southern Michigan has been sentenced to life in prison without parole.

A judge gave Donald Owen Jr., 22, the life sentence Thursday despite pleas for a lesser sentence from Kimberly Dyer's mother and aunt, who cited evidence that another man had killed Dyer.

But Elkhart Circuit Court Judge Michael Christofeno said he agreed with the jury's finding that prosecutors had proved their case for life without parole, based on the circumstances of the crime.

Owen, of Elkhart, was convicted in April along with co-defendant Mario Angulo Jr., 20, of murder in the Columbia City woman's October 2019 killing. Angulo will be sentenced June 24, The Elkhart Truth reported.

Board President Jodi Yancey said she has heard speculation that the Governor's decision on masks "will be turned over to the schools."

"That's what we've been hearing; that he will turn it over to the schools," Studebaker agreed.

Yancey asked Studebaker if there will be decisions on whether vaccinations will be required.

"I really don't know the answer to that, to be fair," Studebaker said. "There's going to be a pragmatic piece of this that's going to become very real quickly. COVID is not done .... and we will have to reconvene" and consider how to handle it.

However, Studebaker did say if there is an instance of a COVID positive person in a classroom, those in close contact must prove they have been vaccinated, and if they haven't been vaccinated, then they will be quarantined. "It will really incentivize folks to get their vaccine because if you're vaccinated then you won't be considered a close contact."

Studebaker said he also wants to work toward more specifics of action should a school building experience an outbreak of COVID-19 or if the county begins to experience a higher rates of COVID-19.

"We need some threshold markers that make it easier for us to make a call. That fine-tuning still needs to happen," he said.

He said cleaning and sanitation protocols are another issue that must be considered.

"How much cleaning are we going to continue to do?" he asked, noting there is "value in continuing some of those protocols no matter what we're doing with COVID" because the school corporation successfully got through illness seasons in the past school year, and for now they are leaving the cleaning as it has been. However, he said they are "going back to normal seating in the classroom."

In other business:

- Studebaker reviewed plans for how the school corporation will use the $5.5 million funds from the third phase of ESSR.

Requirements of the funding are that 20% must be used to address learning loss through the implementation of evidence-based interventions such as summer school and after-school programs, so $1,064,456.42 will be earmarked for that. Ventilation safety issues related to COVID-19 provides the ability for some of that money to go to improved Heating, Ventilation and Air Conditioning (HVAC) for Madison Junior High School — about $1.8 million — and Anderson Elementary School — about $400,000.

A total of $1 million is going toward the Social Emotional Learning staffing and programming (See Page A8). Additionally, there is $421,022 for a retention stipend for staff in the fall and $421,022 as a COVID-19 stipend for staff in the spring. There is also $162,000 directed toward the third year of Math Interventionalists.

"I guarantee you that we will be doing some sort of adjustment as these things go because some of these will come in lower than expected, and some will come in higher," Studebaker said, noting they have three years to spend the money.

- There was considerable discussion on approval of handbooks for next school year. Board member Lori Slygh asked that in the future a board member be included on handbook evaluation committees, and Yancey agreed that is a good idea.

"These are the building's policies that the board has control over" that reflect the positions of the school corporation, Yancey said.

The MCHS student handbook and the school corporation's Code of Conduct were both tabled to be considered at the July meeting. Yancey found issues with information in both, but after Studebaker reviewed with MCHS principal Michael Gasaway, they said it was a formatting issue; that it's correct online, but not on the printed material that was provided to school board members. Yancey also opposed to the athletic handbook, which passed by a 4-1 vote with Yancey voting against.

"I don't agree with the athletic handbook," she said, referencing a section in which she said it would permit "team rules to go above the handbook."

The board approved the junior high handbook with revisions due to corrections recommended by the board. Both the preschool and elementary handbooks were approved without any revisions.

- Honored retirees from 2020 and 2021. Retirees in 2020, unable to be honored last year due to COVID-19, were Debra Abbott, Carla Cheatham, Bonnie Colen, Maureen Getz, Pam Ison, Kathy Joyce, Shelly Lewis, Nanci Liles, Lisa Reverman, Wayne Rumsey and Michael Turner. Retirees from 2021 include Lori Brinson, Terri Brunner, Cindy Burchfield, Charlotte Gibson, Laura Hall, Joe Hall, Lynn Heitz-McKay, Jennifer Hensler, Don Ihle, Keith Mahoney, Tina McClure, Chuck Nunan, Diana Rusk, Lee Strassell, Sharon Sullivan and Susan Thevenow. Each retiree received a limited edition numbered print of artwork by Aaron Kelsey.
- Hired Jackie Schafer as elementary teacher at Lydia Middleton and Hannah Johnston as a band teacher, both effective the 2021-22 school year. Accepted the retirement of Tracy Ahlbrand as principal at Lydia Middleton, effective June 30, 2022.
- Approved $136,450 for renovating four restrooms at Madison Junior High School with the work to be done by Can Do Maintenance of Madison, and paid from the 2020 General Obligation Bond.
- Approved an $78,135 contract for Flooring Concepts of Sellersburg for new flooring in the "A" wing at Madison Consolidated High School.
- Kevin Yancey, director of Facilities and Special Projects, updated work that will be done throughout the school district during the summer. At MCHS, there will be a new roof for "C" wing in June and fire alarm system in July. He said solar installations will begin over Conner K. Salm gymnasium, the cafeteria, art and "C" Wing in late June, and LED lighting will be installed at the baseball and softball fields beginning in late July. At MJHS, the stage area is being painted along with outside fencing. At Anderson Elementary, there will be a new sidewalk near the new addition. At Deputy, a new HVAC is being installed in June. At Lydia Middleton there will be landscaping and concrete work in the playground. There will be work on the intercoms and sound systems at Deputy, Lydia Middleton and Rykers' Ridge and cleaning will be done in every building with crack filling, seal coating and striping at many of the parking lots in the school district.

FUNDING

general obligation bond process, which she said is $6.5 million. "If we have any other beyond that debt we want to issue, we have to go through this process where we form a building corporation and that acts as a conduit for the board."

Hensler said while the process seems confusing, "that's how the law was written." The building corporation includes Rhonda Sauley, Lindsay Hunt-Greves and John Schutte.

The third resolution for the board was to approve the form of the lease by which the building is then leased to the corporation. "You're not approving the actual lease at this time. You're only approving the form that is to be used," she said.

Hensler noted the building corporation will be issuing the bonds, and the school corporation will pay them back. She said the school board still has control in that it selects the building corporation.

Love versus infatuation

ANNIE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My "Laura" is the light of my life. It's been more than a year since we found each other, but my whole body still shakes with anticipation every time I see her. Recently, though, I can't help but feel a growing tension between us. This is my first real romantic relationship, and I know that I have a lot to learn, but Laura can be so critical of me. Like, she tells me I use my tongue too much when we kiss. And the other night, when I was just trying to cuddle, she insisted I go sleep on the couch instead.

As soon as she gets back from work, I can't stop talking to her. I find myself following her around the house. I know that she likes to have a second to unwind in silence. But I'm just so excited to see her that I always forget! The other day, she went so far as to hold my mouth shut. Then she said, "Honey, shut up." It made me feel so small.

I don't want to push my love away with my enthusiasm. But I also can't help but be myself. Admittedly, I'm young and inexperienced. So maybe I'm too eager. But I just can't hide the way that I feel. And I guess I'm afraid that Laura is turned off by my puppy love. Please, help me. What should I do? — Simply Smitten

Dear Simply: There's love, and then there's infatuation. Your letter speaks more to the latter. For true love to grow between you and Laura, you must give it the room and time to do so.

To help curb your obsessive thinking, I encourage you to attend therapy and read "Codependent No More" by Melody Beattie. Develop your hobbies; spend more time with your friends; find work that excites you. Investing energy in yourself will not only boost your self-esteem but also make you more attractive to your girlfriend — a win-win.

Dear Annie: I've been in a relationship for three years with "Maddy," a wonderful woman who has only one child, "Joseph," a 40-year-old who is a total mama's boy (putting it lightly).

Joseph refuses to have anything to do with me. He has never once come to visit us at our home. Maddy goes to see him every year and usually stays a month. This year, she's planning to stay six weeks. I'd love to go with her, but I'm not allowed because Joseph doesn't want me in his house. So, I stay home each time. He shows me no respect or even interest. He doesn't seem to care at all how either of us is doing, really. Maddy simply accepts his behavior and tells me to get over it because he's her only child. I understand their connection, but I think she should think about me and my feelings, too. What should I do about this dilemma? I'm starting to think that maybe she should just stay with her son instead of me. — Unfortunate Boyfriend

Dear Unfortunate: If the relationship is going to work, she'll need to meet your concerns with more than a, "Get over it." Let her know, in a nonaccusatory tone, that it hurts when she doesn't seem to take your feelings seriously. Make it clear that this is a major issue for you, without issuing ultimatums. Hopefully, she will work toward a compromise that shows she values your relationship. If nothing changes, then it might be time to move on.

Mutual friend needs help

ANNIE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I live in a retirement community. I have an acquaintance who lives alone. "Betty" frequently gets lost and cannot find her way home.

When mutual friends are discussed, she does not know who we are talking about. Betty has no family members who check on her. We have tried to seek help from Adult Protective Services, but they say this is not their problem and assure us we have no legal authority to do anything.

So, whose problem is it? She refuses to see a doctor. We helped her purchase a cellphone, but she is unable to learn the simplest operations, and she doesn't take it with her when she leaves home.

Her condition is deteriorating, and I fear she is not safe to live alone much longer. Any suggestions? — Concerned Friend

Dear Friend: You started your letter by calling the woman an "acquaintance" and ended it by calling her a "friend." Good for you. Your kindness and friendship could help prevent a disaster. The Alzheimer's Society has local support groups, and I would suggest checking their website.

Dear Annie: I enjoy going out to eat. Of course, during the past year or so, it has been a rare treat. Lately, our state has opened greater access to dining out.

Recently, I went with my son and husband and was slightly frustrated with the experience. I know restaurants are just getting back into the swing of things, and I realize adjustments might have to be made.

However, it was a test of my last ounce of patience. I felt our table was being ignored. I observed more than one table being seated and served drinks before our server made an appearance at our table. I voiced my frustration to my son, and he thought I was being unreasonable.

Five minutes later, we still had not seen our server. "Be patient," he said. It turned out we had a different server than our surrounding tables did. OK. After another five minutes, my husband finally located our server to ask her to take our drink order. I calculated that we spent 30 minutes waiting for this server to finally realize we were part of her table array.

Am I being difficult for wanting the same amount of service that the other restaurant patrons were receiving? — Just Want the Same Service

Dear Same Service: It sounds as if you just had a new or inexperienced server at your table. Everyone starts with a difference experience level when beginning a new job. Yes, you probably should be a little more patient. However, it is understandable that when you go out to eat, you would like the same service as everyone else.

Maybe you should talk with the management of the restaurant and let them know that it took a very long time to be served. Don't do it in a combative way. Instead, try to help the restaurant out by making them aware of a shortcoming they can fix, especially after all the hardships restaurants have endured during the pandemic. But 30 minutes of waiting to be served is way too long a time in any restaurant.

Beshear lifts Kentucky mask mandate, ends capacity limits

BY BOB DEMAREE

Kentucky's statewide mask mandate for most settings was lifted Friday by Gov. Andy Beshear, who also ended capacity limits for restaurants, bars and other public venues.

"We are lifting the final restrictions put in place to keep our people safe during this once-in-a-lifetime global pandemic," Beshear said. "COVID-19 remains deadly. Our war against it is not yet won. But after more than 15 months of struggle and sacrifice, we can also say this: While COVID-19 remains a threat, we are no longer in crisis."

A new executive order keeps the mask requirement in place only in certain high-risk settings identified by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention: public transit, long-term care facilities and health care facilities.

Masks are recommended for people in correctional facilities or homeless shelters and people who are immune-compromised, are exhibiting symptoms of COVID-19 or have tested positive for COVID-19 in the past 10 days.

Beshear said he was able to make these changes safely because more Kentuckians continue to receive one of the safe and effective COVID-19 vaccines. As of Friday, 2,106,464 people in the commonwealth have received at least their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine.

In Carroll County, one additional death was reported in the information by the Kentucky Department of Public Health on Friday, bringing total of deaths during the pandemic to 21. There have been 1,035 cases of COVID-19 in Carroll County during the pandemic. The incidence rate in Carroll County is at "Yellow" with 5.4% for community spread.

In information from the North Central District Health Department, Trimble County has reported 729 cases of COVID-19 with three active cases and overall seven deaths during the pandemic. The incidence rate in Trimble County is now at "Yellow" at 6.7% for community spread.

On June 10, the Kentucky Department of Public Health reported 289 new cases of COVID-19, bringing the overall total during the pandemic to 461,717 positive cases overall. The total known deaths from COVID-19 in Kentucky is now 7,138 deaths, an increase of 17 from the previous day.

In Indiana, 2,650,441 have been fully vaccinated with 2,717,282 receiving the first of a two-dose series. The Indiana Department of Health announced Friday that 314 additional Hoosiers have been diagnosed with COVID-19, bringing the total to 748,653 the number of Indiana residents now known to have had the novel coronavirus. To date, 13,295 Hoosiers are confirmed to have died from COVID-19, an increase of four from the previous day.

In Jefferson County, 13,273 have been fully vaccinated with 13,114 receiving the first of a two-dose series. Switzerland County has 2,364 fully vaccinated with 2,324 receiving the first of a two-dose series.

There was no change in Jefferson County COVID numbers over the last two days with the total of confirmed cases remaining at 3,354 and the total deaths remaining at 84. The county's current seven-day average positivity rate is 2.1% and the seven-day positivity for unique individuals is 3%. Jefferson County's metric level remains in "Blue" for low community spread.

Switzerland County has had a total of 805 positive cases during the pandemic with an increase of just one over the last two days. The total deaths during the pandemic in Switzerland County remains at 8. The county's current seven-day average positivity rate is 2.1% and the seven-day positivity for unique individuals is 6.7%. Switzerland County's metric level is "Yellow" for moderate community spread.

COVID-19 vaccines are continuing to be administered Monday through Friday at the Jefferson County Health Department for those 12 years of age and older. Appointments can be scheduled by visiting www.ourshot.in.gov or by calling 211. Walk-ins are welcome Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 p.m.-5 p.m., and Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Everyone 12 years of age and older is eligible. An adult must accompany a child 12 to 15 to the appointment; parental consent is required for minors.

Switzerland County Health Department is operating a vaccine clinic at the Switzerland County Technology and Education Center, 708 West Seminary Street, Vevay.

Kentuckians should visit vaccinemap.ky.gov to find a COVID-19 vaccination site near them.

The Miss Madison Racing Team announced on Thursday that it will be running only the 2007-vintage boat this season. Jimmy Shane and Jeff Bernard will share driving duties.

Squad will use the 2007 model with drivers Shane, Bernard splitting time in cockpit

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Charlie Grooms knew that his unusual plan for the 2021 H1 Unlimited season was going to draw ire from a large percentage of the fan base. But as far as the Miss Madison Racing Team president was concerned, it is the best plan moving forward for both the team and the sport.

Miss Madison Racing officially announced Thursday that it will be running only one boat on the H1 circuit this season. To further inflame passions, the boat the team will be using will be the older, 2007-vintage model rather than the newer boat built in 2018.

Grooms said the decision to run only the older boat this season was a matter of practicality. With such a short season and little money to go around, it was not cost-effective to run both boats this season.

"For us, it was a reasonably easy decision to make," said Grooms, who noted that sponsors HomeStreet Bank and Goodman Real Estate, as well as drivers Jimmy Shane and Jeff Bernard, are on board with the idea. "As we view the season right now, there are only two confirmed races and we have no idea what is going to happen. Both Guntersville and Madison deserve to have boats there and we're going to be there to help them any way we can. But it doesn't make a lot of sense this year to run both boats."

As of this week, only Guntersville, Alabama — which kicks off the H1 season in two weeks — and Madison have confirmed with H1 Unlimited that they will stage races this year. Both Tri-Cities, Washington, and San Diego have said that they plan on having races this summer, but neither has finalized that with H1.

That uncertainty has made it difficult for primary sponsor HomeStreet Bank to put forth its full financial package for the season since there is no guarantee what it will get in return.

"Tri-Cities says that it wants to have a race, but right now they can only have 9,000 fans on each side of the river," Grooms said. "That race is a big deal to HomeStreet and they spend a lot of money there. But if they can't have hospitality tents to entertain customers and clients, and there will only be a few thousands fans on hand and no TV, it doesn't make much sense for them to spend that amount of money."

Once the decision to bring just one boat to the eastern races was made, Grooms said it was easy to decide to bring the older, 2007 hull. He acknowledged that the 2018 boat was clearly the faster of the two and, in an odd twist, that was the very reason the decision was made to bring the older boat.

The Miss Madison Team signed Goodman Real Estate to be the title sponsor of the older boat last season but the COVID-19 pandemic scuttled those plans. Goodman is back on board this season, but the sponsor wants to make a big splash in the sport and it is up to Miss Madison Racing to make that happen.

KENTUCKY STATE TRACK FINALS

Trimble's Long narrowly nipped in two state championship races

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

LEXINGTON — The difference between two state championships for Ryan Long and two state runner-up finishes was just over two-tenths of a second, the combined total elapsed time that separated the Trimble County senior and Fort Knox junior Malik Blunt.

The two sprinters dueled over a total of 300 meters on Thursday at the KHSAA Class 1A State Track & Field Finals on the campus of the University of Kentucky. In the first race, the 100-meter dash, Blunt closed over the final 20 meters to edge Long, 10.84 to 10.95.

The second race, nearly three hours later, was just as close with Blunt pulling out the win 21.73 to 21.85.

The result left Long without the state championship he had been hoping to close his high school career with, but he was still pleased with his performance.

"I was wanting the first place but they're still really good times. Twenty-one eight is a really good PR, so I'm happy with that," said Long, who had won the 100 state championship as a sophomore in 2019. "The 10.95 was nice but I was hoping for a 10.7, but I'm still happy with it."

Long's two runner-up finishes accounted for a quarter of Trimble County's podium finishes on the boys side as the Raiders placed sixth out of 39 teams with 37 points. Louisville Holy Cross won the state championship with 55 points to edge Bishop Brossart by one point.

Trimble County's 3200-meter relay team of Jessup Smith, Alex Seward, Walker Tingle and Matthew Craig also finished second in 8:25.80 while Long, Corbin Ginn, Damien Johnson and Ricky Gray ran fourth in the 800-meter relay in 1:33.32.

Jessup Smith finished sixth in the 1600 run in 4:34.85 and seventh in the 3200 run in 10:37.81, Gray, Long, Smith and Craig placed seventh in the 1600 relay with a new school-record of 3:38.77, and Craig placed eighth in the 400 dash in 51.64.

Season ends for all local golfers at tough regional

BY THE COURIER STAFF

No local golfer was able to survive the punishing IHSAA Golf Regional at Champions Pointe Golf Course on Thursday.

In fact, three ranked teams failed to qualify for the state finals while squaring off against the toughest competition in the state.

Fourth-ranked Center Grove won the regional title with a 295, No. 5 Bloomington South was second with a 300 and No. 17 Franklin placed third with a 307. Silver Creek ranked No. 5, 12th-ranked Columbus North and No. 19 Floyd Central were all left on the outside looking in.

Against that onslaught, Madison had a little chance of advancing as a team. The Cubs shot a 343 to place 11th overall, two strokes better than Austin, which has won Madison's sectional earlier in the week.

Madison senior Luke Ommen was the local golfer closest to advancing, finishing three strokes out of qualifying with a 77.

Jackson Lynch was second on the team with an 82, Burk Shelley had an 89, Mitchell Liter a 95 and Clayton Benkert a non-scoring 103.

Juarez leads Oklahoma past Florida State for fifth title

BY CLIFF BRUNT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

OKLAHOMA CITY — Giselle Juarez re-emerged as the star pitcher Oklahoma needed to complement its high-powered offense, and now the Sooners are national champions again.

Juarez threw her second consecutive complete game, and Oklahoma beat Florida State 5-1 on Thursday for its fifth Women's College World Series title.

The Sooners lacked a dominant pitcher heading into the series but Juarez answered the call, allowing one run on two hits in the decisive Game 3. Oklahoma won Game 2 6-2 behind Juarez, who went 5-0 at the World Series and was named Most Outstanding Player. The left-hander allowed four runs in 31 $^1/_3$ innings.

Juarez, a super senior, was a first-team NFCA All-American in 2019 but had surgery on her left arm last year and struggled to regain her form.

"The beginning of the season wasn't great for me, but I just kept grinding and trusting God's plan for myself. He had this moment planned for me," Juarez said.

Much of the crowd stood when Juarez took the circle in the seventh inning. Fittingly, the final out was a popup into her glove.

"Honestly, I was kind of hoping it didn't go in the sun and that they would let me catch it," she said. "But I mean, it felt so slow motion, and then just to look up after I caught it and see (Kinzie) Hansen running at me — surreal, awesome moment."

After Juarez secured the catch, teammates mobbed her and "Boomer Sooner" blared over the sound system as the crowd of 10,830 at USA Softball Hall of Fame Stadium — mostly Oklahoma fans — celebrated the win just 25 miles from campus.

It wasn't easy for the top-seeded Sooners — they came out of the losers' bracket after dropping a stunner to Odicci Alexander and unseeded James Madison in the tournament's opening game. But Oklahoma beat James Madison twice in the semifinal round, then recovered from a loss to Florida State in the championship series opener.

Oklahoma (56-4) also won titles in 2000, 2013, 2016 and 2017, all under coach Patty Gasso. The Sooners set the Division I single-season record with 161 home runs this season.

Jocelyn Alo hit four homers in the World Series, including the go-ahead blast in Game 2, on her way to All-Tournament honors. Her homer in Game 3 was her 34th of the season. The USA Softball Collegiate Player of the Year extended her school single-season record.

"We knew that we wanted to set the tone pretty early," Gasso said. "Jocelyn Alo is made differently. Made differently. When she puts her mind to something, she gets it done, whatever it is."

Oklahoma left fielder Mackenzie Donihoo went 10-for-21 in the World Series and made several outstanding catches during the week to also earn All-Tournament honors.

Florida State (49-13-1) was seeking its second national championship in the past three World Series under coach Lonni Alameda. The 10th-seeded Seminoles finished second in their conference during the regular season, lost in the semifinals of the ACC Tournament and had to win twice at No. 7 seed LSU in super regionals.

They lost their World Series opener before winning five straight to get to the brink of a national title.

"I'm just so proud of the team to be here and everything we've gone through this year to persevere and to be in this moment is what we dreamt of," Florida State center fielder Dani Morgan said. "I'm just proud of this team. We were able to get here and give everything we had."

Florida State's Kathryn Sandercock gave up one hit in 3$^1/_3$ innings of relief in the final game.

She won three World Series games.

Florida State freshman Kaley Mudge set the record for hits in a Women's College World Series with 14. She had 16 hits all season before arriving in Oklahoma City.

"I'm just blessed to be here, honestly," Mudge said. "Coming into the World Series, I did not think that I was going to break any records. I was just excited to put my feet on the clay here."

Alo's homer got things started for Oklahoma on Thursday.

Jayda Coleman poked one just over the fence in the second inning to give the Sooners a 2-0 lead and the early jolt they had been lacking for much of the week.

MCS to expand social emotional learning through CARES

BY BOB DEMAREE

WHAT IS SOCIAL EMOTIONAL LEARNING?

According to Shelli Reetz, director of student services, social emotional learning is the process in which children and adults acquire and effectively apply knowledge, attitudes and skills necessary to understand and manage emotions, set and achieve positive goals, feel and show empathy for others, establish and maintain positive relationships, and make responsible decisions.

Madison Consolidated Schools has earmarked additional resources for Social Emotional Learning by pledging $1 million from the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief Fund (ESSER) to that program.

Shelli Reetz, director of student services outlined the process at Wednesday's Madison school board meeting.

"This work isn't new to the district," Reetz said. "This is something that has been going on for a very long time. Lots of people have been a part of this work. The social emotional behavioral wellness component was in the strategic plan in 2019. These initiatives have been underway for awhile. We're just expanding them to helping with the students' needs now."

The commitment involves using $1 million from the $5.5 million that the school corporation will receive from the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief Fund (ESSER) through the third phase of the American Rescue Act.

Reetz said the $1 million will be used for salaries for three new positions over the three years of the grant, along with curriculum and other education materials for programming, professional development, surveys to assess needs, and the software to provide progress monitoring of interventions.

She said a new title has been established for Student Services, using an acronym for CARES, which stands for "Connection, Advocacy, Resilience for Every Student."

Reetz said the CARES team goal is "moving our model to a more modernized way to think more about student services, and moving away from the guidance counselor/at-risk counselor model to really capture what we have working with our students now. So we talked about the work that we do, what we know has an impact for students, and came up with the acronym for the CARES team."

Reetz continued, "We know that students who have a strong connection to an adult at school or the community have more of a higher rate of success than those that don't have a connection to someone."

She said the CARES team staff "advocates for students every day to be sure their needs are being met in order to build resilience, and we want that for every student."

According to Reetz, social emotional learning is the process in which children and adults acquire and effectively apply knowledge, attitudes and skills necessary to understand and manage emotions, set and achieve positive goals, feel and show empathy for others, establish and maintain positive relationships, and make responsible decisions.

She noted that mental health is something that's universal. "We all have it," she said, and it's a matter of working to maintain mental health just as is done with physical health. She said there are instances of mental illness, but just as with physical illness "we work to prevent that from happening. We have interventions when we do develop an illness. It is also important to think about recovery. We don't just recover from the flu, but we can also recover from anxiety, depression, addictions. Just because someone is diagnosed with anxiety doesn't mean they are anxious the rest of their lives. Working with students to know that recovery is possible is connected to hope."

Reetz said one in six youth have a mental health condition such as anxiety or depression, but only half receive any mental health services. She said untreated or inadequately treated mental illness can lead to high rates of school dropout, unemployment, substance abuse, arrest, incarceration and early death. She noted suicide is the second leading cause of death for people age 10 to 34.

Schools become adolescent mental health providers out of necessity, she said, because "we're where students are," but also because of choice, citing a report that students are 21 times more likely to seek support at the school than in the community.

"That tells us that's where they feel safe, where they know people care about them, and that's where we can really make our point of contact to really make a positive impact," Reetz said.

Students with anxiety, depression and other mental health conditions are impacted by how those factors limit their ability to effectively learn, she said. "Encouraging understanding of adolescent mental health through education and anti-stigma programs will change lives. It will save lives. That's why this work is more important now than ever," Reetz said.

As part of the process, Reetz said there will be surveys to assess the well-being and mental needs of students, staff and families to allow data driven interventions for improving school community well-being. "It would be good to get a temperature check for how we're doing," said Reetz, noting it's been awhile since students, parents and staff have been surveyed, and especially after the mental health challenges that came in the last year from COVID-19.

For the surveys, the school board approved contracts with Authentic Connections and Panorama. Reetz said Authentic Connections provides a high-achieving school survey that is in-depth, and tells about risky behaviors, mental health concerns, relationships and more "that will give us a lot of really good data around how our students are doing which in turn will allow us to craft and target our responses and interventions to their needs."

In the second phase of surveying, Reetz said Panorama will conduct "an overall climate kind of survey that doesn't really target." However, she said Panorama offers a tool approved by the state that provides a means to pull in all data from various sources into one dashboard and track how students are doing, and how they are responding to interventions.

The current CARES team includes Janelle Smith, Carrie Dickerson, Shareen King and Amanda Liter at Madison Consolidated High School; Betsy Sullivan, Hilary Muldoon and Dosha Harrell at Madison Junior High School; Kerri Fisher, Amy Hoskins and Nichole Lohrig at the elementary level, and Natasha LeHigh at E.O. Muncie. Two additional CARES team members — Rachel Otto and Kelly Massie — were hired at Wednesday's meeting. Reetz said one open position at the junior high is being replaced with one more new position to fill. "We hope to bring two more highly qualified candidates to the July meeting after we continue with the hiring process," Reetz added.

Superintendent Dr. Jeffrey Studebaker said he hopes the three new CARES team positions will continue beyond the three years that the grant money is available. "We have already begun conversations with some key people within the community, we also have some state level possibilities as well for future funding" so they won't have to lay off CARES team staffer in a few years. "We're very excited about the potentialities, but it's early to be talking about that."

Cable Advisory Board launches new name, logo contest

Madison TV15 rebranded as Jefferson County Community Television

BY THE COURIER STAFF

The Cable Advisory Board of Madison and Jefferson County met Thursday night and decided on a new name for Madison TV15 and is now looking for a new logo as rebranding of the local government access service continues.

The new name is Jefferson County Community Television — or JCCTV — to reflect the comprehensive nature of the service to provide programming for Jefferson County and its communities and organizations.

As part of that rebranding, JCCTV will hold a contest to seek entries for the organization's new logo. The contest is open to anyone and the prize is yet to be determined. Logos should include the name — or at least JCCTV — but designers can otherwise exercise their creativity.

Designs should be submitted to Madison City Hall. The deadline is Friday, July 30.

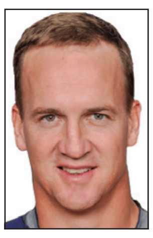
Manning going into Broncos Ring of Fame

BY ARNIE STAPLETON
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Peyton Manning was elected to the Broncos Ring of Fame on Wednesday in recognition of his record-breaking four-year run in Denver that culminated with a victory in Super Bowl 50.

Manning will be honored during a game against Washington at Empower Field at Mile High on Halloween, less than three months after his induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame on Aug. 8.



Peyton Manning

"From Floyd Little to Karl Mecklenburg to Steve Atwater to many others, I've always looked up at the names around the stadium and admired the great players the Broncos have had over the years," Manning said in a statement. "I'm very humbled to now join them as a Ring of Famer."

The six-member selection committee unanimously selected Manning as the 35th member of the team's Ring of Fame. Last year's honoree, former coach Mike Shanahan, also will be honored this season after the pandemic prevented his ceremony in 2020.

Manning joins Champ Bailey (2019) as the only Broncos selected to the team's Ring of Fame and the Pro Football Hall of Fame in the same season.

Manning's four seasons in Denver from 2012-15 "were marked by record-setting individual success and exceptional leadership that helped the Broncos to multiple Super Bowls and one of the winningest periods in team history," team CEO and President Joe Ellis said.

Manning joined the Broncos as a free agent on March 20, 2012, after his release from the Colts following a 14-year run in Indianapolis that included a win in Super Bowl 41.

At the time, his future in football was cloudy because he was coming off multiple neck fusion surgeries that left him with numbness in his throwing hand and he had missed the entire 2011 season.

He replaced Tim Tebow and took over a Broncos team that had gone 8-8 the year before his arrival and led them to two Super Bowls and one championship over the next four seasons.

Along the way, Manning won Comeback Player of the Year, his record fifth MVP award, two AP First-Team All-Pro honors and three Pro Bowl honors.

The Broncos lost Super Bowl 48 to Seattle but returned two years later and beat Carolina for the franchise's third Super Bowl title.

"He just kind of created this sense of energy for everybody — not just the offense or the defense but even the janitors and coaches," said linebacker Von Miller, the Super Bowl 50 MVP. "The coaches started coaching different, the janitors, the cooks, they all had this sort of spark, and it was the Peyton Manning Effect."

A month after Denver's 24-10 win over the Panthers in Super Bowl 50, Manning retired a champion just as his boss, John Elway, had done following his second straight Super Bowl title in 1999.

"When Peyton arrived in 2012, his impact and standard was felt throughout our team, the entire organization and in the community," Ellis said. "Coming back from a serious injury — with a new team in a new city — to not only win MVP but to have one of the greatest single seasons ever by any player was a remarkable feat."

Manning is the fifth QB elected to the team's Ring of Fame, joining Elway, Craig Morton, Charley Johnson and Frank Tripucka.

Manning was inducted into the Colts' Ring of Honor in 2017, the same year he was a College Football Hall of Fame inductee for his success at Tennessee before Indianapolis made him the top overall draft pick in 1998.

Kicker Brandon McManus, the only active Bronco other than Miller who played with Manning, called the five-time MVP "an incredible competitor, probably more than athlete. I don't think he was the greatest athlete per se. But he was the best competitor in the world, and he knew how to win."

Manning, who still lives in Denver, said the city and the Broncos were everything he'd hoped for when he arrived in 2012 and "once I got my confidence we went on a heckuva run and never looked back."

He credited his "many great teammates and coaches" and singled out Demaryius Thomas, Eric Decker, Wes Welker and Emmanuel Sanders on offense along with defensive stars Miller, Aqib Talib and DeMarcus Ware.

"It ended up being a great decision to come here not only to play for the Broncos but to be part of this special community," Manning said. "Denver is a destination city. Our family is proud to call Denver our home and live in this community even after football. I'm very appreciative and grateful for my time with the Broncos. It's a tremendous honor to be named to the Denver Broncos Ring of Fame."

Tokyo Olympic games still undecided on fans

BY STEPHEN WADE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO — The question of allowing any fans into Tokyo Olympic venues is still being debated with a decision unlikely to be announced before the end of the month.

This would be just a few weeks before the Olympics are to open on July 23. Fans from abroad have already been banned in what is shaping up as a largely made-for-television Olympics.

Tokyo and several prefectures are under a state of emergency until June 20. Infections have slowed recently, but the spread of variants is still a concern that could put pressure on already stressed medical facilities.

Dr. Nobuhiko Okabe, director general of the Kawasaki City Institute for Public Health, suggested on Friday he would lean toward few fans. He spoke on a panel put together by the Tokyo Olympic organizing committee.

"Thinking in a different way, I think it's an option to suggest to people to enjoy the games on TV — like teleworking," he said. "We could suggest a different way of enjoying the games."

Okabe said it was not just a matter of fans in the venues, but what they do after leaving — heading to bars or restaurants.

"We don't want people to move much," he said. "That's our wish as we think about anti-virus measures."

Organizing committee president Seiko Hashimoto originally said she would announce a decision in April about local fans but has repeatedly postponed it.

Ticket sales were to account for $800 million in income for the organizing committee. Much of that will be lost and has to be made up by Japanese government entities.

Japan is officially spending $15.4 billion to run the Olympics, though government audits suggest the figure is much higher. All but $6.7 billion is public money.

The Switzerland-based International Olympic Committee derives almost 75% of its income from selling broadcast rights, which drives the games and the urgency to hold it during a pandemic.

Japan's JiJi Press reported Friday, without citing sources, that Dr. Shigeru Omi would issue a report next week that warns about the risks of having fans. He is a former World Health Organization regional director and a head of a government task force on the virus.

Speaking in a parliamentary session last week, he said "it is crucial that we must not let the Olympics trigger a flow of people."

Hashimoto warned there could be penalties for anyone who breaks strict rules around the Tokyo Games. She did not say what they would be and said this was still under discussion.

The protocol for anyone entering Japan for the Olympics requires frequent testing, limited movement, and monitoring by GPS on smartphones.

This includes everyone from athletes to journalists to staff and other officials working the games.

About 11,000 athletes will attend the Olympics with 4,400 for the Paralympics. Tens of thousands of others will also enter Japan for both events. Organizers say the total figure for both events — athletes included — is about 93,000.

Organizers say that's about half of the original total expected of 180,000.

"In order to get the citizens of Japan to feel secure there are rigid rules that we need to lay out or else," Hashimoto said. "We'd like to avoid having to penalize people but we do need to take thorough measures."

Rookie Gutierrez wins again as Reds beat Brewers, 7-3

BY MITCH STACY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Vladimir Gutierrez settled down nicely after a tough start.

A conversation with a teammate helped.

Gutierrez pitched seven effective innings, Tyler Stephenson drove in three runs and the Cincinnati Reds stopped Milwaukee's five-game win streak with a 7-3 victory over the Brewers on Wednesday night.

Gutierrez (2-1) allowed two runs and six hits in the longest of his three big league starts. The right-hander struck out seven and walked three in his second straight win.

The 25-year-old Gutierrez balked home a run in the first, and threw his glove in frustration after he returned to the dugout. Nick Castellanos then approached the rookie and told him he wanted him to go seven innings, and Gutierrez said OK.

Cincinnati backed Gutierrez with five runs in the first two innings. Stephenson doubled home Jesse Winker in the first, and Castellanos hit a two-run double in the second. Stephenson made it 7-1 with a two-run double off Eric Lauer in the fourth, driving in Winker and Castellanos. Willy Adames had four hits for Milwaukee. Brett Anderson (2-4) labored through three innings, allowing five runs and five hits.

Daniel Vogelbach hit a towering homer to right against Heath Hembree in the ninth. Christian Yelich then doubled, but Hembree struck out Avisaíl García and retired Manny Piña on a fly ball to right to end the game.

The Brewers dropped into second in the NL Central, a half-game back of the Cubs.

Gutierrez got a standing ovation after inducing an inning-ending ground ball from García in the seventh.

The worst bullpen in the majors needed the break. Five Reds relievers had surrendered all five runs in Tuesday night's loss to the Brewers.

THURSDAY
BREWERS 7, REDS 2

A rain delay changed Freddy Peralta's plan to pitch deeper into Thursday's game. The Milwaukee Brewers' bullpen seamlessly finished what he started.

Peralta was rolling along through four innings and planning to pitch the fifth before the 37-minute delay. He had given up just two hits, one of them a Joey Votto homer in the second inning, but Brewers manager Craig Counsell decided not to get the right-hander up and warm warm again after the rain.

Four relievers kept Cincinnati in check, and Milwaukee cruised to a 7-2 win to take two of three from the Reds in the series.

Where can you find the money to build a safe, predictable retirement?

"You are likely to be retired much longer than you think. A recent study suggests that 50% of those born now will live beyond 100." -Stephen Dybwad

Layin' It on the Line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

For how long do you think you will live? Do you believe you'll live into your late 70s? Are you confident you'll follow in the path of your parents, who were alive and well into their mid to late 80s?

The average joint life expectancy (men and women together) is approximately 88 years for over 49% of the population. A full 20% of Americans live to age 95!

Depending on your unique perspective, that's either good news or bad news. It is good because many people want to live for as long as possible, provided they are in decent physical and mental health. However, a long life can be bad news when it puts you at risk of outliving your money in retirement.

Something else to consider is that these numbers are averages. There are many exceptions to the rule, especially if you are the beneficiary of excellent genes, have tried to stay fit and healthy, and have managed stress properly. More people are hitting triple digits, and you could very well be one of them.

Longevity is a possibility. Therefore, creating a portfolio to help you maintain your current standard of living in 30 plus years of retirement is challenging. Having less money in retirement is a concern for retirees and pre-retirees. Nearly all seniors know someone who has beaten the odds and has lived for a longer time than they planned.

Many retirees and pre-retirees had had someone in their own families who went through hardship and deprivation because they ran out of many at a time when they needed it the most.

The logical solution to not having enough money for retirement is to start earlier and save more. That is not always easy to do, however. Many people are barely making ends meet and do not have much discretionary money to create retirement income. You may fall into that category and worry that you will not have any money to build a retirement account.

How do you find money to finance a retirement plan?

Developing a saving and income-planning mindset is valuable at any age.

Understandably, you might have a tight budget due to where you are in your career track. Or, you might have family, medical, or debt issues that make saving a tough proposition.

Fortunately, there are some ways you can free up cash or find the money you never knew you had, to fund a retirement plan. Here are three things you can do right now to free up money for retirement.

1. Debt restructuring. Take a look at all your debt, including student loans and consumer debt. Perhaps you can negotiate lower rates or pay debt off more slowly. For example, instead of paying more than the minimum due on a debt, take that money and put into something like a dividend-paying whole life insurance policy, annuity (depending on your age), or dividend-paying stocks. When you pay your debt off TOO fast, you lose the opportunity to grow that money.
2. IRA or 401(k) Use every advantage to contribute the maximum amount of money allowed. As you age, begin to move a higher percentage to assets that are not as volatile, such as annuities. Ask your financial expert and tax advisor to see if you might transfer your 401(k) funds to a self-directed IRA and purchase an income annuity. Always consider this with the big picture in mind, make sure you seek licensed and authorized professional advisors.
3. Live a simpler lifestyle. Making your car, major appliances, and other big-ticket items last longer can add up to thousands of dollars you can use to fund your post-career life. Eat out less often, never pay full retail, and look for every bargain you can find.

No matter your current financial situation, you can and should set aside money for a time when you will no longer get a paycheck. Starting early and being consistent, along with small lifestyle changes, will help you avoid common mistakes and achieve a better retirement lifestyle.

Here is a word to the wise. Before making any decisions about where and how you invest your retirement money, always consult a licensed and authorized professional.

The Miss Madison Racing Team announced on Thursday that it will be running only the 2007-vintage boat this season. Jimmy Shane and Jeff Bernard will share driving duties.

be faster than the HomeStreet. Not as fast, but faster," Grooms said. "In order to make that happen, we have to see exactly what needs to be done with the '07 boat. There are a lot of issues that need to be fixed. The weight balance is off, there is a bent spar and there are a lot of repairs that need to be made. That boat has run a lot of laps over the years."

Grooms said the team plans on using the Guntersville and Madison races to see what changes need to be made to bring the boat up the 2018 hull's standard relative to the rest of the current field.

A simple testing session won't cut it.

"John Goodman wants us to tell him what needs to be done," Grooms said. "So, we'll run it, find out and let him know. Then we'll know what the next step is."

The 2007 boat will run under both the HomeStreet and Goodman Real Estate colors but will be officially known as the "U-1 Miss HomeStreet."

Regular HomeStreet driver Jimmy Shane and Goodman driver Jeff Bernard — both accomplished drivers — will split time in the seat, but Grooms said no decision has been made as to how the split will be made.

"We'll sit down with both Jimmy and Jeff and come up with a plan that will suit both drivers and everybody involved," Grooms said. Bernard will also drive the GP-79 Bad Influence in the Grand Prix America series at both Guntersville and Detroit. Despite the unusual plan for this season, Grooms said the team's primary focus is on 2022 when he expects the sport to return to normal operations.

He even believes that there is a very good chance that Detroit will return to the schedule after a three-year hiatus.

"We're trying to make the best of a bad circumstance. We're certainly not disregarding this season. The 2007 boat is still incredibly fast and may be the fastest boat on the water," Grooms said. "But our focus is on 2022 and what can we do to be as successful as possible. We have two great sponsors, two great drivers and two great boats. Our goal is to have the HomeStreet and the Goodman Real Estate battling each other for first at every race and that's what we are going to do."
